AlphaBEST’s Judy Nee Named Among Top 25 Most Influential People in Afterschool

The National AfterSchool Association honored Judy Nee for bringing positive attention and investment to the afterschool field.

LEWISVILLE, NC – Judy Nee, Executive Vice President and General Manager of AlphaBEST Education, Inc., was recently named by the National AfterSchool Association (NAA) as one of the top 25 most influential people in the afterschool community.

As part of the selection process, the National AfterSchool Association looked for leaders whose service, research and action positively influence and impact large numbers of children and families in afterschool programs. Nee has more than 20 years of experience partnering with afterschool care and extended learning organizations. She has long been recognized for her role in advancing and expanding the afterschool field.

“I am so grateful to have been selected for this honor by my colleagues at the National AfterSchool Association,” says Nee. “I am delighted and encouraged to see so many others included in this list of exceptional individuals in our field.”

The National AfterSchool Association is considered by many to be the leading voice of the afterschool community. Dedicated to the development and education of out-of-school time programs, the NAA is a professional association and advocacy group with an active membership of more than 4,000 individuals, including afterschool program directors, principals and community leaders from across the country.

NAA members nationwide were responsible for nominating the selected honorees. Each of the chosen honorees will be featured in a special edition of AfterSchool Today magazine to be released later this spring. To view the complete list of honorees, click here.
